About Athena

The Athena Publishing House is a company dedicated to inspiring the imagination of young readers ages 8-13. With a focus on memorable and fantastical stories that teach important lessons, a keystone of the work done at Athena is the meaningful relationship created between the readers and the authors. This is achieved by hosting field trips where students can explore our library that boasts hundreds of age appropriate titles. We also encourage our young readers to sit in on discussions with authors. As a company owned by someone with physical disabilities, we have made it a priority that our offices at Athena be accessible, inclusive and welcoming for anyone who wants to join our story.

Concept Statement

The goal of this design is to create an office for Athena Publishing House which serves both employees and guests to the office. This design should be creative and interactive; as well as aesthetically appealing. These goals will be achieved through the following; first, the elements of color and line will be used to create movement throughout the space and a playful element to time spent in the space. Bright colors, organic shapes, and interactive structures will be used to achieve these goals. Shape and form will be used to create a larger than life proportion to field trip friendly zones of the office. There should be a clear distinction between spaces for employees and spaces for children, this will be done through the use of unique wayfinding techniques. The employee only areas of this office should be composed of a variety of work spaces: casual meeting spaces, traditional conference rooms, and a spread of office types should be prioritized in this design. All of these things will be done with sustainability and accessibility in mind.
